Greetings:

Zillow, Trulia, Realtor.com and other Online Publishers' (Publishers) Terms of Use require anyone sending them information to grant them an irrevocable, perpetual, worldwide licenses to, among other things, use, copy, distribute, transmit, publicly display, publicly perform, reproduce, edit, modify, and translate submissions, in connection with their services..

State Listing Agreements do not grant such rights to Brokers nor do they authorize Brokers to grant such rights to Publishers.

Zillow's Terms of Use: "...you grant Zillow an irrevocable, perpetual, worldwide license to (a) use, copy, distribute, transmit, publicly display, publicly perform, reproduce, edit, modify, and translate your Submission, in connection with the Services or in any other media, and

(b) sublicense these rights, to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law. Zillow will not pay you for your Submission. Zillow may remove your Submission at any time. For each Submission, you represent that you have all rights necessary to grant Zillow the rights in this paragraph and that the Submission complies with Section 2(a) above."

Trulia's Terms of Use: "...You agree not to post, submit or link to any User Content or material that infringes, misappropriates or violates the rights of any third party, including without limitation the copyright, trademark, trade secret, patent, publicity, privacy or other intellectual property rights of any third party, or that is in violation of any Federal, State or local law, rule or regulation, including Fair Housing Laws. . . . You agree that by posting content on the Site, you are granting Trulia a royalty-free, perpetual, irrevocable and fully sublicensable license to publish, reproduce, distribute, display, adapt, and otherwise use this content in any manner on or in connection with the Site or in the course of offering the Services. You understand and agree that any User Content that you post or submit to Trulia may be redistributed through the internet and other media channels, and may be viewed by the general public..."

Realtor.com's Terms of Use: "...By Transmitting Content to the Move Network, you grant, and you represent and warrant that you have the right to grant, to Move an irrevocable, perpetual, non-exclusive, fully paid, worldwide license to use, copy, perform, display, and distribute the Content and to prepare derivative works of, or incorporate into other works, the Content, and to grant and authorize sublicenses (through multiple tiers) of the foregoing. Furthermore, by posting Content to any public area of the Move Network, you grant Move all rights necessary to prohibit any subsequent aggregation, display, copying, duplication, reproduction, or exploitation of the Content on the Move Network by any party for any purpose...”

The attached Addendum corrects the omission and will allow Brokers, if the Seller approves, to continue sending Seller Listing Information to publishers. This Addendum is also posted at <http://www.narep.net/documents.php?doc=listing-agreement>.
